Kitchen is acting as subject of the late Senatorial Conference, it has not been, nor shall it now be, in any spirit of unkindness to Mr. Montgomery, and if his course in the premises was as fair as he represents it to have been. I cannot see the necessity of all the acrimony infused in his letter. It has always been my aim to stand upon the record,-to deal with facts,eall things by their proper names, -and religiously maintain the truth of history.

Mr. Montgomery takes exception to the entence in one of my late communications, n which it was stated that, he "would vote for any candidate Mr. Ent required."
